As the Examiner goes to press, 5 p. m., meager returns throughout the state indicate the re-nomination of Geo. W. P. Hunt for governor; the re-nomination of Senator Mark Smith for United States Senator, and the re-nomination of Carl Hayden for Congressman on the Democratic ticket.

Sidney P. Osborn has a walkover for State Secretary; J. C. Callaghan, for State Auditor, will be re-nominated by a strong vote; Wiley Jones has a big lead for Attorney General over Linney and Hardy. C. O. Case appears to be far in the lead for re-nomination for State School Superintendent against H. G. Robertson.

G. H. Bolin leads for Mine Inspector. Geary, Jones and Bradner are favored for the corporation commission. P. J. Miller, of Yuma has a winning lead for the Tax Commission.

In Yuma county, the primary election is characterized as the closest political contest in many years. About the only candidates thus far sure of nomination are for supervisor: Ike Proebstel, of Wellton; John Shanssey, of Yuma, and John A. Donovan, of the Yuma valley.

For Representative, J. B. Flanagan, of Parker, and Glenn L. Wheeler, of Yuma, lead, though James L. Edwards is pressing Wheeler closely.

James S. Garvin is nominated for the State Senate.

Walter D. Riley seems to be safe for Treasurer.

Hugo B. Farmer has a safe lead for clerk of the Superior Court.

Miss C. Louise Boehringer has captured nearly all the votes for the nomination of County School Superintendent.

The balance of the Democrats in the race are still doubtful, with 100 votes—of 535 cast—yet to count in Yuma, West, and seven or eight very small outside precincts yet to hear from.

Superior Judge Frank Baxter and County Attorney Fred L. Ingraham are running neck and neck for the nomination to the Superior judgeship. Mel Greenleaf and Gus Livingston are within eight votes of one another, in favor of the former. Rosser I. Winn and County Recorder Jim Hodges for the Recorder's office, are see-sawing back and forth, and neither leads long at a time. J. Carroll Power has made

HER SONNY NEEDED A CAREFUL CHAPERON

The Louisville Times says: The telephone bell jingled merrily in the officers' room at Central station the other night and a feminine voice replied to a corporal's "hello": "Is dis der poleese station?" "Yes, madam." "Vell, I want you to find my poy Jakle and send him home." "What has Jakle done?" "Nuddings. But he won't stay home at nights. He just runs around and runs around. And sometimes he don't get home till nearly 10 o'clock." Smothering a desire to laugh, the corporal asked: "How old is Jakle?" "He vus 32 his last birthday." "Madam," gently replied the officer. "you had better let Jake alone. He probably has got a girl."
